

GRAN PARADISO SUMMIT (4061 m)

Ideal for your first summit at 4000 m

The Gran Paradiso massif and its eponymous summit (4061 m) are located in the western Alps. A Royal reserve in 1856, it became a National Park in 1922. The first national park in Italy and Europe, the Gran Paradiso National Park defines an impressive high mountain range furrowed by deep valleys. Created on the initiative of King Victor Emmanuel II to protect ibex, the park remains a safe haven and protective area for animals including chamois, ibex, marmot, fox and vultures.

This route ascends the Gran Paradiso summit via gentle gradient slopes without technical difficulty. The ideal first 4000m summit! From the summit the panorama embraces the Mont Blanc, Matterhorn and with the Alpine arc extending as far as the eye can see.

The route

Day 1

Meet on Wednesday at 11:00am in Pont in the Valsavarenche valley. Please bring your own picnic for the 1st day.

PONT - VICTOR EMMANUEL REFUGE (2734m)

Welcome at Pont, Valsavarenche and a little technical practice to get used to walking with alpine boots. Depart from the hamlet of Pont. A good part of the hike is through a nice larch forest with frequent sightings of ibex! Arrival at the Vittorio Emanuele refuge (2734m) in a high mountain setting with breathtaking views of the Piccolo Paradiso (3868m), the Herbetet (3778m) and the Mont Tresenta (3609m).

Elevation: +800m

Day 2

GRAN PARADISO (4061m) - VICTORIO EMANUELE REFUGE

Set off early in the night. We climb up the Gran Paradiso glacier to join the climbers arriving from the route from the Chabod refuge at 3600m. A magnificent, easy ridge leads to the summit of Gran Paradiso (4061m). The panorama from the summit of Grand Paradiso is dazzling. From Mont Rose to the Matterhorn, from Mont Blanc to the Ecrins and even Mont Viso and the Mercantour in the distance!

From the top is a taster of tomorrow's view! Descend via the same route to the Vittorio Emanuele refuge for lunch and overnight.

Elevation: +1300m

Day 3

REFUGE CHABOD or second chance for GRAND PARADISO - PONT

From the refuge, return to the Valsavarenche valley via the wild route of the Refuge Chabod. Marmots, chamois and ibex are often to be seen, providing a gentle end to this immersion in the world of the high mountains. Depending on the group's level of fitness and desire, there is also the option of climbing the Tresenta peak (3609m).

Elevation: +350m /- 1250m

End point at Pont, Valsavarenche.

This is an example of a mountaineering program for climbing the Gran Paradiso via the normal route. The weather, snow and mountain conditions, as well as the level of the participants could obligate the guide to modify the program or to take different routes.

The trip

LEVEL ****

Physical level:

High level of fitness required, people who train regularly in endurance sports (cycling, hiking, running, cross-country skiing, swimming) several times a week for at least 6-12 months before departure. Minimum preparation is for example, twice a week, one hour of jogging (10km/h) and once a week an endurance sport for several hours.

Good fitness is vital to appreciate this tour. Please arrive well-rested and prepared for this mountain tour to maximise your enjoyment of reaching a 4000m peak!

Technical level:

No particular difficulty, mainly walking on snow. An initiation of walking in crampons on snow will be given along with walking with a rope, however it is essential to have a habit of walking (off-trail) in the mountains with a backpack of several kilos. Accessible to good walkers who have walked up above 3000m and used to walking 8 hours a day.

GUIDING

A qualified high mountain guide per four people for the duration of the tour.

The guide may modify the itinerary at any time or cancel the tour for a participant who does not have the required level for their own safety and that of the group. In this case, the participant cannot claim any refund. In the event of very bad weather and always to ensure the safety of the participants, the tour may be cancelled. In this case, we will examine the reimbursement requests according to the number of days spent on the tour.
